

Afternoon Talk

Impact Factor and Improved Access to Papers

For Researchers (including Students) and Research Assistants of CRIS, RIES, ICAT, and ARC

■ Contents

The latest version of the Journal Impact Factor was released at the end of June.

In this talk event Northern Campus Library staff will explain

- how to calculate the Journal Impact Factor,
- how to check it, and
- how to compare journals in the same research field by it.

And on the theme of “Access to Papers”, we will provide following information:

- library’s support to make your paper open access
- some tools which expedite your access to papers, such as “Google Scholar Button” and “Kopernio”

We would appreciate hearing your opinions and requests for library services on this occasion.
